

made by Jeff

I make things for print too.

I'm a Los Angeles-based nerd, product designer, front-end tinkerer, husband and father. I'm also a lover of garage rock, Led Zeppelin vinyls, minivans, Tolkien & Discworld, and my collection of colorful pants. I have 4+ years of print design; both online and offline. I started my career in print making postcards, window graphics, in-store displays and newspaper ads. I learned early on to always covert text to outlines.

I was using 48hourprint & Vistaprint before most people even know about them. Plus, I had a focus in college on printmaking; lithography in particular.

Jeff's fun facts:

- I've recently had a mohawk colored at different times in red, pink, blue and purple.
- Pierce Brosnan is James Bond, to my generation.
- A friend of mine and I tried to be DJs one summer. It went about as well as you'd expect.
- I got married in South Africa.
- I was making animated GIFs for clients back in the day before it was cool to do so.
- I just received the 🦄 award at Tradesy.